

Arts of Change - Change of Arts

What role do the arts, students and universities play in shaping a sustainable future? The project "Arts of Change - Change of Arts" offers you the opportunity to further educate yourself in terms of content, methodology and strategy on the topic of "art, sustainability and socio-ecological transformation" between March and November 2022, to connect with students from all six Austrian art universities and to implement trans- and interdisciplinary projects on this topic. In this way, you will become part of a cross-university network of students who together help to shape the socio-ecological transformation and advocate for sustainable development.

What you can expect

- An online preparation and reflection phase with contributions from arts & culture professionals and academics on the topic of "Art, Sustainability & Transformation"
- Peer-to-peer coaching in the summer and winter semester 2022 (on- & offline). Expected dates: 18-20.3.2022 (getting to know each other); 7-8.5.2022 (defining a project); 9-11.9.2022 (conclusion)
- Participation in a 1-2 day conference of your choice on the topic of sustainability/the Sustainable Development Goals of the UN Agenda 2030 (costs will be covered up to a certain amount)
- The implementation of a first project together with the other students until November 2022 & financial support for the first project of approx. 700 Euros (depending on how many projects are created)
- Networking with other motivated and committed arts students (approx. 15 participants in total) and Arts of Change alumni
- An expense allowance of 100 euros for your commitment
- Integration and final presentation of the project within the framework of UniNETZ - Universities for Sustainable Development Goals
- Important: There are no costs for you. If the Covid-measures allow physical meetings in the summer and winter semester 2022, travel costs, accommodation costs and costs of food will be covered!

Curious?

Then let us know who you are (which university, course of study, past or present art projects & interests), what motivates you to participate and what contribution the arts, students and universities can make to sustainable development. You are welcome to apply in a format of your choice, we will give free rein to your creativity.
